

EXCLUDED

1910
1911
1912
1913
1914
1915
1916
1917
1918
1919
1920
1921
1922
1923
1924
1925
1926
1927
1928
1929
1930
1931
1932
1933
1934
1935
1936
1937
1938
1939
1940
1941
1942
1943
1944
1945
1946
1947
1948
1949
1950
1951

In 1933, the German boxer Johann Wilhelm Trollmann - known as Rukeli to his family and friends - won the German light heavyweight boxing championship against the reigning champion Adolf Witt. Because Trollmann was from a Sinti family, the judges at first refused to recognise his victory and declared the result void. They then changed their minds in the face of public protest, but Trollmann was stripped of his title ten days later on the grounds of “unmanly” behaviour.

He was arrested and deported to a concentration camp, where he is reported to have been made to box against an endless number of SS men. In 1944 he was murdered in Wittenberge, a sub-camp of the Neuengamme concentration camp.

C.6

Did you know

... that in the 1930s, Johann Trollmann adopted the dancing style of boxing that was later to become the hallmark of the world heavyweight champion Cassius Clay (Muhammad Ali)?

... that it took the German Boxing Association 70 years to right this wrong and put Johann Wilhelm Trollmann on the list of German light heavyweight champions in 2003?

For you to do

Do you know of any other sportsmen or women who were deprived of their titles for political reasons?

The photo

Official photograph of Johann Wilhelm Trollmann taken by Hans Firzlaff in 1928. Documentation Centre of German Sinti and Roma, Heidelberg, Germany.